GREAT CHANGE OF TEACHERS AT KAWAIAHAO

THE FAMOUS OLD SEMINARY GOING TO HAVE A COMPLETE CHANGE OF TEACHING STAFF FOR NEXT TERM—WHOLESALE RESIGNATIONS ON GROUNDS OF HEALTH—HANDSOME NEW BUILDING TO BE OCCUPIED IN SEPTEMBER.

"Yes it is true that the teachers of the Kawaiahae Girls' School are going to resign," was the statement made this morning by Frank C. Atherton, when asked if the report was true that all the teachers were going to leave in June.

"The teachers who have given long and faithful service in the work of the school have been obliged to resign in nearly every case, on account of ill health."

"There are at present seven teachers in the school, and out of that number five have already sent in their resignation to take effect at the close of the school year, and the other two will probably send in their resignations also."

"They have all thought the matter over very carefully, and it is with great regret that they made up their minds to sever their connection with the school."

"The trustees of the school have been in correspondence with some teachers on the mainland, and by the time that the school opens in September, in the new building up in Manoa Valley, a new force of teachers will be on hand to take up the work that has been left by the retiring force."

"It is with great regret that the trustees have accepted their resignations, but we are in hopes that the new force will be able to do as good work as their predecessors."

"Part of the new school building will probably be ready about the first of September—that is, we will be able to take care of about eighty girls and in time the whole school will be able to care for about one hundred and fifty, not counting the teachers and others who are employed at the school."

"The work of building is going on very rapidly and it will be a thoroughly modern building when it is entirely completed."

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT

JAPANESE LABORER IN PAAULIO MILL INSTANTLY PARBOILED IN A TANK OF LIQUID.

On Tuesday or Wednesday of this week a Japanese workman fell into a superheated tank either of juices or molasses in Paulio sugar mill. When he was taken out there was little but his clothing and bones left of the unfortunate man.

Happily, although the risks are not few, the happening of such a gruesome accident in Hawaiian sugar mills is rare.

The news of this horrible occurrence was given to the purser of the Noeau, just before sailing from Honokaa, by a Portuguese.

BONINE MOVING PICTURES OF FLEET

Bonine, the moving picture man, may remain over here to take moving pictures of the great Atlantic fleet and other vessels which accompany it when the American armada approaches this port from around Koko Head. A station upon the back slope of Diamond Head looking over Waialae Bay will command a view that will take in the whole line stretching in the Molokai channel, or a station on the topmost point of the crater's edge would prove even better. Probably nowhere could a better picture be obtained and the films which will be made of the great armada will go all over the world and the world will know that they are pictures of the fleet approaching Honolulu. Stationed where the survey monument is located on the tallest tip of Leahi, Bonine, after taking moving pictures of the fleet's approach down the Molokai channel, can shift his machine and take pictures of the vessels maneuvering off the harbor, coming to anchorages and, some of them, entering port. The whole scene in either direction will be uncovered before his lens. Diamond Head and Waialae ridge will be great vantage grounds for photographers and Waialae Bay will present one of the greatest spectacles imaginable when the fleet comes. It is a typically tropical bay, looking down from Waialae heights, with the Leenberg palms and the stretch to Koko Head, and the fleet in the distance will complete a picture such as never before was seen in these waters.

Exciting Catch Of A Moonshiner

JAPANESE DISTILLER CAPTURED UPON HUALALAI MOUNTAIN SLOPES—COLLECTOR DRAKE DETECTED THE BUSINESS THROUGH STRATEGY—THE CULPRIT FOUGHT AND RAN FOR COVER BUT WAS QUICKLY OVERTAKEN AND OVERPOWERED

Collector of Internal Revenue Walter F. Drake returned from Kona this morning, accompanied by Deputy U. S. Marshal W. S. Chillingworth who had gone up to bring down an illicit distiller named Kinoshita. Drake tells an interesting story of the way the still was found and raided. It appears that he with his two deputies, Jeremiah W. Doyle and L. L. Harding, were staying at a house in Kona when a drunken Japanese came in and told one of the servants of a place where liquor was being made. The servant described the place to Drake but would not go as guide, being afraid.

The location of the still was about five miles away on the side of Hualalai and the three revenue officers started out on their quest. The description given had been so meager that the house where the illegal work was going on was hard to find. At last, however, it was located and that it was the right place was made certain by the sour smell of fermentation which was easily noticeable. Drake went to the door and asked if there was any honey for sale there, as he had heard that the liquor was being made from that article. A Japanese responded that there was not but told him where he could get some a short distance away. Drake then asked for a drink of water and when the Japanese went to get it stepped inside the house and uncovering a keg found the illicit material. He then called in the others and placed the man under arrest.

While searching for the still and what liquor had been made he heard a scuffle and looking around saw the Japanese and Harding wrestling on the floor. Then the prisoner got away, dashing out of the house with Drake close at his heels. He was making for the lantana, where he would have an easy time getting away, but was just too late, as Drake caught him at the entrance to the brush and held him. He acknowledged that he knew that he was in plinkia and that it was against the law to make liquor. A search of a few minutes was enough to enable the officers to find a complete plant, the larger part of which was destroyed, though part was brought to Honolulu to be used as evidence.

JOHN MUIR WILL COME BY AND BY

HIS EYES NEVER TURNED ON A MORE BEAUTIFUL REGION THAN HAWAII—WILL NOT BE "USED" FOR PROMOTION OR OTHERWISE—JACK LONDON'S BEST TIME IN THESE ISLANDS—CHARLES WARREN STODDARD.

Mr. A. Gartley's enthusiasm over the scenery of Kaula (see Advertiser of late date), is well justified, and Mr. Gartley has undoubted qualifications for an expert opinion on the subject, but as to John Muir himself, I question if he could be caught by the Promotion or any other committee.

He is a product of Nature—one of California's big things. He is as shy as the deer and as elusive as the tines of his own loved mountains. He has for many years wanted to make Hawaii a real visit, but it would not be as the guest of a society having mercenary objects. Not that this sort of advertising is not strictly proper; it is, but John Muir travels incognito, or as the companion of a friend. The way to get finely meshed men whose good opinions we want, is to pass them with the rope of a friend.
